

Julia's favorite thing about being an author is visiting children. She prefers small groups (1-2 classrooms) vs. large all-school assemblies. This allows a more intimate setting to interact with students one-on-one.

If cost prevents you from scheduling, please contact Julia via the contact page on her website for options: juliarichardson.net

ABOUT JULIA:

Julia lives with her family on a farm in southwest Michigan. A big truck moved her house to a hilltop overlooking a pond. This is where she writes her stories.

Her dog, Hope, lays at her feet for every typed word.

Julia is friends with a peacock. He comes for tea and begs for cookies.

AWARD-WINNING AUTHOR

When Julia was young, she struggled to read and write. Thanks to dedicated teachers she overcame a severe case of dyslexia. Her journey to publication inspires children to believe in their dreams.

Julia's debut picture book Little Dandelion Seeds the World won the Growing Good Kids Book Award from the American Horticultural Society and the Junior Master Gardener Program.

Within 20 miles: $100/hr

Within 50 miles: $200/hr

Greater than 50 miles: $1000/day plus lodging if needed.

***SPECIAL SAVINGS: 50% off visit with a preorder of 50 or more books. Books will be autographed to match individual requests and delivered on the day of the visit.

WHAT EDUCATORS SAY:

"We loved having Julia Richardson visit our classroom and share her story with our class. Her story of overcoming difficulties and disappointment was inspiring to hear. Students were engaged from start to finish. I would highly recommend!"

- Laura Simonds,
3rd grade teacher
Mattawan Public Schools

"I enjoyed having Julia read and engage with my students. The presentation was funny, engaging, encouraging and heartfelt. My students were giggling, smiling and thinking throughout. After, they wanted to use writing time to answer the questions that were presented.

- Kelly Hopkins
Kindergarten teacher
Kentwood Public Schools

WHAT STUDENTS SAY:

"I thought it was just a normal visit but you changed my life. When I heard you say how hard it was it made me happy to write. It helped me and I loved your story."

- 3rd grade student

"I loved that book you read and I like the cover on the book. I felt like a seed flying in the sky. I felt happy that you were with us. Thank you."
